Canadians to Play Third Game at Medicine Hat for Western Intermediate Championship

Deadlocking the first game against Swift Current Indians on Monday evening by a score of 4-4, winning the second game last evening at Medicine Hat by a score of 4-2, in an exciting period of overtime, and with the third and likely final game this evening at Medicine Hat, Coleman Canadians have covered themselves with glory in the battles for the western intermediate championship. Splendid broadcast services direct from the arenas have enabled fans to follow the games. Coleman is preparing a grand welcome home for the boys, who are expected on Saturday morning.

Hockey Broadcast To-Night Canadians vs. Swift Current

Through the courtesy of Coleman merchants, hotels and mine managers, to-night's game at Medicine Hat will be broadcast through C J O C, Lethbridge.

Mine Workers to Meet Sunday Afternoon

Committees of mine workers of International and McGillivray companies met the general managers during the week to discuss the terms of renewal of the two year agreement which expires March 31. A general meeting of Coleman Miners Association will be held on Sunday afternoon to receive the committee's report and for transaction of regular business.

Application for Extension of Subvention on Coal Stresses Need for More Employment in Mines

Recently steam coal mine operators met to urge the extension of the subvention on coal from eastern British Columbia and Alberta.

The Maritime provinces have been favored with a greater measure of assistance by the Federal government than Alberta and British Columbia, and more equitable treatment is asked by the western operators, not only in the interests of the companies and capital invested, but also from an employment standpoint in aid of the mine workers.

Statistics are given showing the advantages gained by the Nova Scotia coal industry, and in fairness to the western mines similar aid is asked.

The application states, among other important facts:

What we particularly desire to stress however is that unless subventions are translatable into tonnage, they are valueless. Although the existing subventions have been helpful, it is a fact which needs no elaboration, but which can be readily established from reports made by the various companies to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, that employment possible to miners in the steam coal mines of Alberta and Eastern British Columbia has remained at a seriously low ebb. It is equally true that during the past year and at the present time, it is virtually impossible for a majority of the men employed, especially married men with families, to make ends meet, a condition which has resulted not only in suffering and privation, but has engendered grave unrest. Men who are physically below par through insufficient food and inadequate clothing, who suffer themselves and see their families suffer, turn readily to any doctrine that seem to offer a way out.

Improved employment for the miner, apart from the benefit to the workman and those directly dependent on him, carries a train of benefits with it to the citizens of mining towns, to the railroad employees who haul the coal, and to everyone connected more or less remotely with coal from its initial mining to its ultimate consumption. The assistance asked for has been duplicated, in some instances to a much greater degree, in other industries, to an extent which in 1932 aggregated for all industries so benefited, $14,000,000. In the consideration of measures of national relief, surely one of the most sound and practical methods of affording it would be the provision of a tonnage which would enable men to continue in their own industry, in their own homes, in circumstances familiar to them, and under conditions more nearly approximating those of more fortunate times.

We have outlined our case primarily on what the government has already done elsewhere. We have emphasized the beneficial result to the mines affected, and we have urged consideration from the standpoint of definite action yielding definite tonnage. Beyond all, however, we emphasize the need for consideration from the standpoint of alleviation of actual distress. The need is immediate and urgent, the distress is real and serious, and increased employment a vital necessity, no less in the direct interest of the worker than in the interest of the nation as a whole.

ENTHUSIASTIC HOCKEY FANS

Howard C. McBurney went along with Canadians hockey team which left on Sunday afternoon by train 12 for Swift Current. So enthusiastic was he over the victory of the boys as Alberta champions that he decided to take a week off and see the boys through the inter-provincial series with Saskatchewan.

"Bill" Bell of the Grand Union is another enthusiastic supporter who rallied a party consisting of Bill Wright, Bob Penman, Robert Jenkins and George Graham to take down in his car, leaving here early Monday morning for Swift Current, a run of nearly 400 miles, to see the game that evening.

"TORONTO STAR WEEKLY" CAMPAIGN

G. E. Rhodes and F. A. Sketchley are in charge of an energetic campaign to promote circulation in the Pass towns of that excellent Canadian weekly, the Toronto Star, which carries the finest features of any weekly published from coast to coast. It is a paper which can be heartily recommended in any home, and the local campaign is part of a national campaign to place this excellent weekly in every Canadian home. It is delivered weekly to the homes, on payment of ten cents to the delivery boy, and it is the most useful and entertaining ten cents worth you can buy.

ON DOWNWARD PATH THROUGH IGNORANCE

Mario Servo, 19 years, was held in the courthouse cells at Blairmore for obtaining $17.75 from Frank Barrington, taxi driver. The cell door was left unlocked and he walked out, returning after 24 hours on the advice of a brother. Before acting police magistrate R. F. Barnes he was charged with breaking out of jail in addition to the first charge. He was acquitted on the first, as a party who owed him money agreed to make it good, and on the second charge he was sentenced to six months. Investigation revealed that the lad could not read or write it is alleged, and lack of education and poor home environment had tended to make him sub-normal.

APPEARANCE COUNTS

Important Factor in Public Eyes
Printing of good appearance adds to the impression on the public. Poorly printed, cheap looking printing gives an impression of cheapness of the goods or service advertised. As one is judged largely by personal appearance, so is the store or business concerned judged by the appearance of its printed matter. Cheapness begets cheapness.

The World's Great Handicap

In an address delivered recently at Watrous, Sask., Professor Swanson of the University of Saskatchewan, said he could see signs on the horizon of a return to economic sanity, but "fear is in the way." He said: "International fear, political fear, biological fear, fear of Japan, economic fear. Life is overshadowed and overclouded with fear. The time has now arrived," he added, "to take place of leadership in our country, in overcoming these fears. On the Western plains there is no place for this fear."

Fear in the United States we have Bruce Barton, one of the most observant and sanest writers of the day, pointing out that the economists seem pretty well agreed that the bottom of the depression has been reached and passed and that business is fundamentally better all over the world, while of his own country he says it is now in the position of a sick man on his way back to health; that while a great many medicines are being applied, some of which probably help the patient's recovery and some of which hurt, the important fact is that health is returning, and that the country can stand a considerable dose of patent medicines without permanent harm, and that when the country is really healthy it will throw the patent medicine bottles out of the window, discharge the most radical doctors, and go on its way.

Bruce Barton, however, points to two very important things for people to remember and heed. It is, he says, vitally important to keep an open mind. Things never happen as going to be the same as they were; on the other hand, they are not going to be so entirely different as some enthusiasts people would have us believe. It is, he says, no use sighing for the return of the good old days; it is even less useful to assume that all the past was bad and must be discarded. His advice is: "Keep moderate; keep flexible."

Most important, says Bruce Barton, "fight all fear," and he urges that the words of Thoreau be placed where they can be seen every day: "Nothing is so much to be feared as fear. The sin that God hates is fear; He thinks atheism innocent in comparison."

It is undeniably true that fear is the great obstacle to a return to more normal conditions throughout the world. It is fear that prevents disarmament and continues to impose upon the taxpayers of the nations the crushing burden of huge armaments, navies, air fleets, and the whole complicated paraphernalia of war establishments. It is fear that leads nations to erect hostile tariffs against the goods and products of other nations. It is fear that is keeping untold millions of money locked up instead of it coursing through all the channels of business and providing work and wages for countless thousands at present unemployed. It is fear that is distorting the minds of people and making them the easy victims of others who preach the gospel of discontent and despair.

Fear never makes for progress. Being destructive of constructive thought and initiative, it acts as a brake on progress, preventing the launching of new enterprises, discouraging expansion and further developments. Through the engendering of timidity and lack of self-confidence, fear leads man to withdraw into himself and behind isolation protective devices wherein he covers but does nothing else. In a word, fear makes him a coward with the worst of people appear to be fearful.

It is the future of which most people appear to be fearful. They decline to recognize and accept the lessons and experiences of the past as having any bearing upon or offering any guide for the problems and experiences of the present. Instead, in their fear, they say present difficulties are different from anything ever before known, and consequently neither they nor any other person or persons know what to do or what ought to be done.

So, in their fear, they will not take actions which would not only accomplish something but would inspire others to action, and the cumulative effect of which would be a solving of difficulties. Work would be provided for hundreds and thousands of people now idle if others having some reserves would take their courage in their hands and proceed to have this, that or the other little job done which demands attention. But, no, they will not venture even a small expenditure and thus they retard progress and help to perpetuate a condition of things which, if continued, will mean their own ruin.

Wise parents seek to overcome fear on the part of their children. They do it judiciously but persistently because they realize that the obsession of fear is the greatest possible handicap in life. Wise leaders of the Canadian people in all walks of life should join forces in waging war on fear which now possesses so many, and they should join battle with those who are engaged in capitalizing fear as an agency in the advancement of feelings of economic despair.

Saskatchewan Homesteads

Special Consideration To Be Given To Veterans Of The Great War
Granting special rebates to veterans of the Great War who served in an actual theatre of war, but also applying to all purchasers to the extent that free homesteads are practically obtainable again in Saskatchewan, new land regulations, retroactive to 1929, will shortly be announced by the government. Under the new regulations all provincial lands for sale will be advertised without classification. Interest charges for 1933 and 1934 have already been forgiven and if conditions warrant, no interest will be charged in 1935. But, in any event, the rate will be cut too five per cent. Several thousand and buyers will benefit.

A factory at Storn, Maine, turns out approximately 50,000,000 tooth-picks daily.

Alberta's Greenhouses

Value Of Sales In 1931 Was Placed At $800,000
Though Alberta is thought of by most people as a country of wheat it has considerable space devoted to greenhouses. Alberta leads the other prairie provinces in this respect. The figures recently released at Ottawa show that in 1931 the province had some 642,000 square feet under glass in greenhouses not on farms, and in addition some 528,000 square feet under glass on farms. The value of the business done from these greenhouses in sale of flowers, flowering plants, vegetables and vegetable plants was placed at approximately $800,000. These figures indicate that the greenhouse business in this province is a fairly substantial one.

Fatal cases of influenza in England numbered much less in 1933 than in 1932.

Household Drudgery
The Bane of a Woman's Life

Nature intended women to be strong and healthy instead of weak and sickly, but how can a woman have good health when she has to go through the household drudgery without any relaxation? Let any woman become nervous and irritable, has hot flashes, faint and dizzy spells, shortness of breath, sinking and smothering sensations, and can't sleep at night.

Women who are weak and run down will find in Milburn's H. & N. Pills a remedy to strengthen the system and bring back the much desired health.

Act May Be Revised

Amendment Of Canadian Constitution Is Now Under Consideration

Revision of the Canadian Constitution to bring it into harmony with present-day conditions is under consideration by the federal authorities. Tremendous changes in the business and social life of the Dominion have occurred since the British North America Act was drafted and while Sir John A. Macdonald and the other Fathers of Confederation are rated among the greatest statesmen the country has produced, it is now recognized they could not foresee all the developments of the last half century or more.

There are many ways in which the federal and provincial jurisdictions, apparently clash, including radio, aviation, insurance, companies acts and other matters which were not contemplated when the B.N.A. Act was framed.

Amending the constitution, if it comes, will be brought about by an address of both Houses of the Parliament of Canada to the Parliament of the United Kingdom. Consent of the provinces is not absolutely necessary, but the government of Canada would hesitate to seek changes without the consent of the provinces.

Revision of the constitution would be a task requiring considerable study, and it is suggested here that the matter might very well be referred to a special committee of the senate, which is singularly well equipped with legal talent.

Answering Hurry Call

Firemen Were On Their Way But Forgot Address

From a member of the faculty of Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville we have heard about the shock a Scarsdale family had one night about a quarter past eleven. Mummie and Daddy and the kiddies had all gone to bed when they heard the screaming and rumbling of fire-engines. The husband just turned over in bed, but the wife got up and went to the window. She saw three or four fire-engines standing practically at her curb, puffing and chugging. And suddenly her doorbell rang. Shouting at her husband (who still didn't get up), she threw something about her shoulders and went down and opened the door. "Can I use your phone, lady?" asked a big fireman standing there. "Yes," she said. "Where's the fire?" "Gotta find out," he said, brushing past her. "We all forgot address."—The New Yorker.

Only Case Known To Science Where Such Birds Have Lived

A wingless rooster recently received by the Smithsonian Institution has defied precedents established by fowls that have been hatched without wings heretofore by living to grow into healthy adulthood minus the customary appendages. In all other such cases known to science the wingless birds have died while still young chicks.

The present specimen was found in the flocks of Mrs. Otto Deering, of Rose Hill, Ky., who sent it to the institution. Its behavior seems to be normal in most ways, but it is afraid to make jumps that would bother an ordinary chicken. It hesitates a long time, for instance, before jumping from a table to the floor to obtain food, even when it is very hungry.

Far-Seeing Romanticist

Frenchman Predicted Photograph Long Before It Became Reality

Admirers of Theophile Gautier, the great French romanticist, point out that he foreshadowed the photograph many years before it became a reality. In 1847 Gautier wrote in La Presse: "One day it will be possible to make a polished plate receive and preserve the vibrations of sound, and thus conserve and perpetuate a melody by Marlo, a thrush by Rachel, or a couplet by Frederic Lemaître. Thus we shall be able to keep hanging on the wall the screed of Don Quixote, the imprecations of Camille, the declarations of Ruy Blas—records of an evening when the artist is in good form."

Wife (during domestic argument): "I think you are very unreasonable, John."
Husband: "I certainly was. I expected you to be reasonable."

Central Bank May Not Have Elasticity Of Finance Act

Present and future ministers of finance will have a fairly rigid advisory body to "aid" them when the new Central Bank is established and operating. But those of them who are individuals may find, in moments of crisis, that the central bank will get up, the three something about her curbs, puffing and chugging. And suddenly her doorbell rang. Shouting at her husband (who still didn't get up), she threw something about her shoulders and went down and opened the door. "Can I use your phone, lady?" asked a big fireman standing there. "Yes," she said. "Where's the fire?" "Gotta find out," he said, brushing past her. "We all forgot address."—The New Yorker.

During the war, Sir Thomas White gave Canada's affairs a financial direction that was masterly. He sought and obtained advice from the best possible sources but having no permanent advisory body to bother him he was not tied down to conformity to their prejudices and red tape.

Likewise, the Finance Act to-day has an elasticity about it that greatly helps the Minister of Finance in meeting the country's financial problems.

There is a classic story about the Westerner to whom Sir Sam Hughes offered a commission. The war minister asked this man if he wanted to join the infantry or the cavalry. The reply was "The infantry. When we get into trouble I don't want to be hampered with no horse."

In days to come many a finance minister, facing conditions such as those exist to-day, may wish that he were not hampered by "no horse."—Financial Post.

Worse Than Pestilence

Alarming Increase In Number Of Motor Car Fatalities

That the automobile is a destructive and death-dealing machine is again indicated by the appalling number of fatalities in the United States due to motor accidents. Figures compiled by an insurance company show that 29,900 Americans were killed in auto mishaps last year; and while this is only a small increase over the total for 1932, the dismaying fact is revealed that the death list was proportionately a good deal higher.

Thus it is pointed out that the death rate of fatalities to the number of deaths occurred despite the fact the total auto registrations and gasoline consumption had dropped.

The annual death toll exacted by the motor car both in Canada and the United States should occasion serious thought. If some pestilence were sweeping the country we would organize all our forces to check it. We should not sit idly by and accept the frightful auto death toll as one of the inescapable hazards of modern life.

Apricot Custard Tarts

1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
1 cup mashed stewed apricots
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon Benson's Corn Starch
1 cup scalded milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons sugar
2 egg whites.
Mix and sift together the first quantity of sugar, the salt and corn starch, then gradually add hot milk and cook in double boiler until thickened. Add well beaten yolks and cook for a minute longer. Stir in the vanilla and corn. Pour the mixture into previously baked tart shells and cover with meringue made by adding the cold stewed apricots mixed with the second quantity of sugar and the lemon juice to the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, and beating until the mixture holds its shape. Brown slightly in a rather hot oven.

Producing Poultry Meat

Experiments at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, have shown that it takes 28 1/2 pounds of mixed grain to grow Barred Rock cockerels to twenty-six weeks of age, weighing an average of 6.68 pounds. That is, with a good class of Barred Rock chicks, 4 1/2 pounds of grain can be converted into one pound of meat. The lighter breeds consume an average of six pounds of feed for each pound of gain in meat.

Unsinkable Lifeboats

Many Devices Used Make Them Expensive To Build

"Wonder-boats" is a description that has possibly not yet been applied to the craft of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution, yet it is not inappropriate. In the Institution's fleet are boats that can free themselves of water as rapidly as it comes on board. They can keep afloat when every one of the watertight compartments has been damaged and open to the sea.

If capsized they can right themselves and empty out all water in 25 seconds, and in the case of motor-propelled boats, continue running when the engine-room is flooded.

I was given these facts when I talked to Lieut-Colonel C. R. Satterthwaite, secretary of the Royal National Lifeboat Institution, about the boats that during the last few days have saved many lives from the fury of the easterly gales, states a London newspaper special representative. I also learned how it is that a boat full of water can immediately empty itself.

"On the bottom of most boats in our fleet and on the sides of some of the latest models," said Colonel Satterthwaite, "are relieving valves or sumpers. These only allow the water to pass one way. As fast as the sea fills the cockpit of a lifeboat it is automatically emptied out at the bottom or sides. That is perhaps not the most remarkable feature of lifeboat construction."

"Not many people know that a lifeboat can have twenty holes knocked in each side, and yet still be able to go on with its work. This is due to the fact that a lifeboat is divided into from seven to fourteen watertight compartments, and has from 70 to 160 air-cases. These air-cases made by practically unsinkable, and a boat can be kept afloat by these even when each of the watertight compartments is open to the water. In view of these devices it is hardly surprising, perhaps, that the modern motor lifeboat costs from $3,500 to $9,000."

Europe Is Moving Toward New Crises With More Armaments

London.—Europe is moving toward new crises with increasing armaments and crumbling democracies. A clash between the Caesars of Italy and Germany appears only a matter of time. France and the United Kingdom, last of Europe's great democracies, now feel the battering of the storm.

Revolutions in Paris in connection with the Stavisky Bayonne pawnshop swindle add to the growing disquiet. The government of veteran Gaston Doumergue is scarcely well in the saddle, yet observers already are questioning how long it can last.

Private armies of the right and left are increasing their membership. Hacks which overthrew the administration of Edouard Daladier gave a limited victory to the right. On the other hand the general strike revealed the strength of the left. It was the first strike which included all state employees. It was only partially successful, but to Paris, without a single delivery of letters, it was sufficient to serve as a warning.

"Fascist virus is beginning to work its poison even in the veins of the nation of liberty, equality and fraternity," the Sunday Times comments. "The menace may not yet be serious, but it evidently exists and the danger is that the political situation of Europe as a whole may develop as it is to increase the risk."

And private armies in Britain, the mother and home of parliaments, are increasing steadily. Sir Oswald Mosley and Sir Stafford Cripps, Fascist and Socialist would exercise authority by much the same methods. Their main difference is color. In either case effective parliamentary control as now known would disappear.

And a factor common to all these shiftings movements is the dominance in them of young men. They are to be met everywhere, impatient of conditions which offer them little future and demanding action.

Wage War On Hoppers

Preparations Under Way For Battles Against Menace

Winnipeg.—Preparations are under way for one of the greatest battles against grasshopper infestation in the history of the province. Hon. D. G. McKenzie told members of the legislature. The assembly discussed agriculture estimates.

The fight would be interprovincial and international, Mr. McKenzie said. A survey last fall indicated approximately the same areas in southern Manitoba will be affected but the density of infestation appeared to be moving westward.

Present prospects are that southwestern Manitoba and large portions of Alberta and Saskatchewan face a very serious situation, the minister said. Adjoining states south of the international boundary will co-operate in the campaign.

Labor League Secretary Is Acquitted By Jury On Charge Of Sedition

Toronto.—After deliberating six hours and 15 minutes a jury here acquitted A. E. Smith, general secretary of the Canadian Labor Defence league, of a charge of seditious utterance involving Prime Minister R. B. Bennett. He was alleged to have charged the prime minister with ordering the shooting of Tim Duck, Communist prisoner at Kingston penitentiary, during the convict insurrection of 1932.

Smith, veteran Methodist church minister of Brandon, who discarded his clerical garb during the Winnipeg labor riots of 1919, slept on a wooden bench in a city hall jail during the last hour of the jury deliberations. Shortly after 6 o'clock he was arrested by sheriff's officers and led to the prisoner's dock in the same court.

The foreman of the jury, who had led the 11 jurors back into court twice after the charge was made by Mr. Justice Hugh E. Rose, shortly before noon pronounced the words "not guilty."

The prisoner at the bar, a 62-year-

Rumors Of Coup

Startling Disclosures Are Made In Stavisky Case

Paris.—Three startling disclosures involving secret symbols, the murder of a prominent judge, and rumors of a coup d'état were made by officials investigating the $400,000,000 pawnshop bond scandal of the late 31st Stavisky.

Members of a parliamentary committee quoted Jean Chiappe, former prefect of Paris police, an avowed former interior minister Eugene Bort planned a coup to gain the leadership of the government during recent riots that formed a bloody sequel to the Stavisky affair.

M. Frost categorically denied the allegations, which he described as "pure romance."

Another development was that police, in their efforts to find a "trail of higher-ups" in the swindle, studied the mysterious symbols Stavisky used to designate cheque stubs in his secret payments.

The third was that police sought the "double of Judge Albert Prince, key man in the Stavisky investigation, who was slain between here and Dijon recently, in the belief that a man strongly resembling the murdered magistrate had arrived in Dijon instead of Prince.

General Election In Alberta Is Forecast

May Be Called Soon After Present Session Closes

Calgary.—A general provincial election in Alberta, to be called soon after the close of the present session of the legislature, is forecast in a story published by the Calgary Alberta.

A cabinet shake-up immediately following the present session; continuance of a non-cooperative policy in regard to the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation throughout the present session, and a general election campaign with one faction standing on a platform of social legislation on a wide scale and of urging drastic changes in the British North America act are forecasts contained in the Albertan story.

Treasury Bills Sold

Interest Rate Believed To Be Lowest On Record

Ottawa.—Dominion of Canada treasury bills to the amount of $15,000,000 were sold by public tender at what was believed to be the lowest interest rate on record for Canadian short term financing. The bills were in two series, $2,450,000 for three months at an average cost to the government of 2.85 per cent., and $12,550,000 for eight months at an average cost of 3.12 per cent. Dated March 1, they mature June 1 and November 1.

Approves Sweepstakes For Hospital Purposes

Senate Passes Bill Which Now Goes To House Of Commons

Ottawa.—Legalization of sweepstakes for hospital purposes received the approval of the senate for the second time when the upper house of parliament passed Senator G. H. Barnard's bill on second reading. The vote was 40 to 23.

The measure now goes to committee of the whole in the senate, and when finally approved will come to the house of commons. Last year the senate passed a similar bill introduced by Senator A. D. McRae, but it met with overwhelming defeat in the house of commons.

The measure will go to the commons this year with the assurance of Premier R. B. Bennett that a wide-open debate and a free vote with party lines withdrawn will be permitted. This assurance was given at the recent Dominion-provincial conference when Premier L. A. Taschereau of Quebec pressed for the legalization of sweepstakes. Mr. Bennett, however, is personally opposed to the move.

Uncover Arsenal

Illegal Distribution Of Arms And Munitions In Montreal

Montreal.—A body blow at illegal distribution of arms and ammunition to criminal hands in Montreal was struck by provincial police in an important raid. They seized 28 loaded revolvers, 1,000 boxes of cartridges, five rifles, three shotguns, 20 daggers, 25 blackjacks and a number of axes in a house in suburban Outremont.

Three months of careful investigation into underground circulation of deadly weapons were climaxed by the raid, Chief Louis Jarguile of the detective department, provincial police, said. A man, declared to be a leading figure in Montreal underworld, was in the house at the time police descended upon it and was placed under arrest. His name was withheld pending arraignment.

Quota For Cattle

Western Livestock Promoter Sees Disaster Ahead For Market

Calgary.—Canada's quota of 20,000 head of cattle for shipment to the United Kingdom will be exhausted long before the six months' time limit expires, in the opinion of Jack Byers, Western livestock exporter.

First set at three months, the quota was extended to six, following protests of Western stockmen. Up to the present the number of cattle shipped from Canada totals 8,341 head of which Western Canada sent 3,114 head. During the same period a year ago shipments from the Dominion aggregated 4,798 head.

Mr. Byers sees disaster ahead for Canadian markets if the United Kingdom market is closed to the Dominion exporters.

Separate Investigation

Victoria.—Investigation of price spreads between producer and consumer will be launched by the agricultural committee of the British Columbia legislature, entirely separate from the probe being conducted in Ottawa, it was decided at the investigation of George Murray (Liberal, Lillooet).

INDIAN APPOINTMENT

Sir James Gigg, K.C.B., chairman of the British Board of Inland Revenue for three years, who has been appointed to be Finance Member of the Executive Council to the Viceroy of India.

Fighting Insect Pests

British Guiana Starts Battle To Save Sugar Crop

Georgetown, British Guiana.—A grim battle between insects through which entomologists hope to eradicate the dread moth borer pest which annually destroys large sections of British Guiana's sugar crop, has been started.

Thousands of parasites for which Dr. J. G. Myers risked his life through the jungles, swamps and rough waters, have been released on five British Guiana plantations, and it is hoped the pests that cost the colony's premier industry thousands of dollars yearly, will be annihilated.

Release of thousands of "Amazon flies" was the final phase of the relentless task undertaken by Dr. Myers and his assistants.

Parachute Saves Student

Young Canadian Pilot Had Narrow Escape In England

Bishop Waltham, England.—A young Canadian student pilot, W. S. Soule, 21-year-old resident of Sudbury, Ont., taking instructions under an Austrian pilot named Hell, fell out of the plane while Hell was making a slow roll 4,000 feet up. His safety straps gave away as the plane was upside down.

"I fell at terrific speed," Soule said afterwards, "I did three somersaults, but then I was able to pull the ripcord of my parachute. It was perfectly horrible until the chute opened, but it answered beautifully and I came down comfortably, just missing some tall trees." He was none the worse.

Slump In Construction

Calgary.—Better times are here for nearly every industry in Canada except the building and construction industry, Major L. L. Anthes, of Toronto, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, told the Calgary Association of Sanitary and Heating Engineers.

Irish Free State Starts Campaign To Grow More Wheat

International Distrust

Henry Ford Says Munition Makers Responsible For War

Fort Myers, Fla.—Charging that a small group of men were responsible for war through the manufacture of munitions and by fostering international distrust, Henry Ford thinks United States Senator William Borah "had the right idea" in his attack on the $500,000,000 United States navy program and other army and navy construction.

"The people in general don't want war," said Henry Ford, "but it has been forced on them by scheming munition makers looking for enormous profits through the sale of arms."

"I do not pay much attention to the talk about war for I have found out that there is not much I can do about it as an individual. Outlawing war depends upon the people. In the past they have followed the war makers. If we could get rid of the approximately 100 men responsible for wars in this world, the people would enjoy peace."

Grading Hogs And Eggs

Regulations To Be Studied By Commons Committee

Ottawa.—The regulations for grading hogs and eggs will be studied by the commons committee on agriculture, F. H. Pickel (Cons., Prom.-Mississippi), brought the matter before the house in a resolution asking that the grading laws be amended. After considerable discussion the house accepted the amendment of George Stirling (Cons., Yale, B.C.) referring the question to the committee.

The government hog graders were often "pals" of the packers and favored their friends as against the farmers in grading the animals brought to the abattoirs, Mr. Pickel declared. The egg graders were also frequently against the farmers.

Air Route To Canada

Direct Route Via Newfoundland Under Study By British Government

London.—A direct air route to Canada via Newfoundland is under study by the British, Canadian and Newfoundland governments, the house of commons was told by Sir Philip Sassoon.

Sir Philip, under-secretary for air, presenting the air estimates, remarked an entirely new project for which a provision of $50,000 is contained in the estimates is a weekly service between New York and Bermuda, in which Imperial Airways and American interests will co-operate.

Sir Philip also said it was hoped to have the Britain-Australia service in operation by the autumn.

Will Hold Four Courts

London.—The king and queen will hold four courts at Buckingham palace on May 15 and 16 and June 12 and 13, and an afternoon drawing room at the palace of Holyroodhouse during the week commencing July 9.

Dublin.—The Republican government is clearing the decks for a great "grow-more-wheat" campaign in the Irish Free State this year, and laying plans for intensification of propaganda to increase the acreage still further "until the country is independent of external sources of supply."

Free trade and the cheapness of North American wheat are blamed by Eamon de Valera for the fall in wheat acreage and the president is resolved if necessary to prohibit all imports of wheat and strain every resource to turn the farmers' minds from the stock pens to the plow.

The Free State has the lowest wheat acreage of any country for which records are available. Owners of land are to be appealed to over the radio, through the newspapers and by means of postmarks on their letters.

Mr. Seamus Ryan, minister of agriculture, and mynapping of the campaign to put more farmers behind the plow, believe 100,000 acres will be grown this year and plans to increase the area progressively to 500,000.

The government is also considering plans to increase acreage of oats and barley but at present there happens to be a large surplus of oats and possibly still further restrictions will be put on imports of maize for livestock feed purposes.

To Correct Abuses

Want Investigation Of Livestock Industry In Ontario

Toronto.—The agriculture committee of the Ontario legislature moved to correct alleged abuses in packing plants and stock yards. Without a dissenting voice, the committee passed a resolution asking the Stevens committee at Ottawa to thoroughly and immediately investigate the whole livestock industry of the province.

Numerous complaints were presented to the committee by drovers, claiming there were no competition among buyers at the stockyards, the large arms' buyers refusing to bid against each other, that bids were cut after the market closed, that the bulk of shipments went direct to the abattoirs without being subject to bidding, and that handling charges were so heavy the farmer's return dropped below cost.

Prince Albert National Park

Recommend That Province Of Saskatchewan Eliminate Claim

Prince Albert.—Recommendation "that the province of Saskatchewan eliminate its claim insofar as it affects Prince Albert national park, as it is preferable the park be administered by the federal government," was sent to Regina after being approved by the local board of trade.

It arises from Saskatchewan's claim for compensation for alienation of land for the park. The Dominion countered before the probing commission by the federal government, and that handing over the park over to the province.

National Control Council To Curb Mass Buying Proposed To Committee

Ottawa.—A national control council to curb mass buying by chain and department stores and unfair, unethical business practices was proposed to the Stevens' committee of the house of commons by George Houghan of Toronto, secretary of the Ontario Retail Merchants' Association.

After describing big-buying organizations as a social menace to Canada as a whole, the Toronto official suggested a federally-controlled council to supervise industries generally. With each industry would be a board, again supervised by the Dominion in the interest of the consumer, to establish fair-trading codes and enforce wage and hour regulations.

A picture of misery and destruction left in the wake of mass buying and mass advertising by chain and department stores was painted by Warren K. Cook of Toronto before the committee.

THE HOME-COMING TO TRAGEDY

The shock of his father's tragic death is plainly mirrored on the face of Crown Prince (now King) Leopold of Belgium, (left), who is shown being greeted on his arrival in Brussels by Premier Count Broqueville. Leopold was vacationing in Switzerland when he received the news of the death of his father.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A championship hockey team quickens community interest. All the world loves a winner; you have plenty of friends when you are on the top. For the first time in its history, the local amateurs captured the coveted honor after a week's strenuous battles. Admiring friends gathered at the depot on Sunday to wish them good luck, and the boys deserve all the praise one can hand them.

All are local boys, who play for the love of the game. Greater rivalry and local interest is aroused by strictly amateur teams than by semi-professional players in a group of towns such as those of the Crows Nest Pass.

Coleman boasted an Allan Cup team in 1923. It was an extravagance the community could not maintain, and the brilliant players of those days were picked up by big league teams while the lesser lights faded back to the bush league whence they came. It was difficult to arouse interest in hockey for a few years. People turned up their noses at the amateur brand after enjoying senior semi-professional hockey matches. But enthusiasts behind the amateurs and the players themselves kept the game going. Every year saw improvement, some of the older boys came back to the home town, and for a year or two despite all that Coleman would try to get into the championship play-offs Blairmore had the edge.

Eventually, with the reward that comes usually to persistent effort, and to Jack Kwasney's handling, the championship was brought to Coleman.

Such an achievement should encourage the younger boys to become organized, for a good hockey team cannot be maintained unless younger players are being trained to step into faster company. A team cannot rest on its laurels, for persistent effort is the price of success no less in sport than in work.

The army that enlist no recruits, the Canadian Legion, in session this week at Ottawa at its Annual Convention, attracts public attention of those who remember the sacrifices of 1914-1918. Many do not care; they were not touched by the war. The old soldier is soon forgotten, and were it not for the fight maintained by the Canadian Legion for the maimed and crippled and the "burn-out" war casualties, many a deserving ex-soldier would have been left without a pension. The glory of achievement is short lived.

Recently a small group of "little theatre" enthusiasts competed in the Alberta dramatic festival in Calgary. Though not gaining a high standing in their first attempt, their ambition is to be commended, for they make it known that Coleman endeavors to keep pace with cultural life of the cities and towns. Shortly "Journey's End" is to be presented here by local amateurs. It is a play taken solely by male characters, depicting incidents of the war, and was inspired in the author's mind by a night raid on the German trenches. The writer, R. C. Shirriff, recently retired from the army at the age of 37 years. The play will be eagerly looked for by people of the Pass towns.

St. Patrick, the patron saint of Old Ireland, will be honored on Saturday by people of the Emerald Isle. The Irish and the English are the only groups in Coleman who do not hold an anniversary celebration. The Irish may be too few and the English too modest. Whether St. Patrick drove the snakes out of Ireland cannot be ascertained from the reference books in our office, but this legendary character has sufficient halo to arouse national feelings of enthusiasm and to cause to be worn the little sprig of Shamrock.

President Roosevelt's recovery act is being challenged by industrialists, who in reply to the president's request for shorter hours and higher wages to help the return of prosperity, ask where is the money coming from? Where has the money gone to which was in circulation prior to 1929? Recovery will be long deferred if people are to be forced to a low standard of living because someone asks—where is the money coming from?

It takes a little foresight to perceive that it is only by a more even distribution of world products that increased happiness and contentment can be brought about. Money undoubtedly must furnish the standard whereby we carry on business, but it is greed for money alone that clogs the wheels of reviving industry. It is greed that helps to encourage sweat shop conditions and competitive cut-throat methods. Big business is in most cases merciless, as witness the revelations of the methods of mail order and chain stores in not only buying at murderous prices, but in turn selling at prices which no independent dealer can meet and survive.

The public itself can take a hand in helping to bring about improved conditions by observing their codes of honor and fair dealing; by refusing to buy goods produced under sweated labor conditions; and by insisting that manufactured articles bear a fair price label to ensure that those who made the goods were paid more than a starvation wage. It is the most effective way of bringing about fair play for the worker and the independent retailer whom the big concerns try to force out of business. Public opinion is the most powerful weapon to bring about reforms.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Jimmy Evans, a Coleman boy playing on Portland Backrooms in the Northwestern League, has made a name for himself again this season. In a recent game he scored seven of thirteen goals against Calgary Tigers, and two assists.

There is talk in the Alberta legislature of appointing a commission to investigate the coal mining situation. Why not ask some of the members who are paid $1,800 a year for attending a six weeks' session to take on some extra work of the kind? A House of Commons committee is tackling a far bigger task under the chairmanship of Hon. H. H. Stevens, a very busy minister.—Exchange.

The hockey club for all its games in Coleman issued boldly printed posters from The Journal, which were circulated in all Pass towns of Alberta and B.C. Their effectiveness is shown by the large numbers which turned out, as in many towns this was the first of advertising for the games. Natal, Michel, Corbin and Fernie all sent several cars. Incidentally the playoff games brought many outsiders to town and general business is increased activity.

Mrs. R. Ferguson is spending a few days in Calgary.

Eileen Richards was a week-end visitor in Lethbridge.

Mrs. F. Graham entertained a number of ladies at bridge on Saturday night. The prize winners were Mrs. Clifford, 1st; Mrs. T. Flynn, 2nd and Mrs. J. O. C. McDonald, consolation.

Fred Greenhalgh, young son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Greenhalgh, was admitted to hospital early in the week for an operation for appendicitis, and passed away on Tuesday at 1:30 p.m. The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon with service at the United church.

The football club dance is postponed till some time in May, probably 23. In order to raise funds a draw will be held for a handsome gold watch, ladies or gents, for which tickets will be placed on sale at 25c.

At least one newspaperman is a few dollars to the good. Editor Bartlett won the pool on Monday night's hockey game between Canadians and Swift Current. Reminds one of the story of a newspaperman who was possessed of $100,000. Asked how he amassed such wealth, he stated a rich relative left him $99,999.00.

Rev. W. Irwin of Taber addressed the Men's Brotherhood in St. Paul's church on March 6, on "Economic Planning." His address was listened to with keen interest, and many questions were asked by the audience. The meeting opened with the singing of "O Canada," and several recitations and community singing helped to enliven the program, which closed with the singing of the national anthem.

The investigation into chain and departmental mail order stores has emphasized the point The Journal has stressed for a long time, that bargain hunting and cut-throat competition results in sweatshop methods and the slavery of the worker who has no organization to defend him or maintain a fair wage standard. Evidence at the enquiry sessions has brought to light some damnable methods of "squeezing" on the unorganized toilers, and tending to force the honest retailer out of business. The Journal has consistently declined to accept advertising from mail order houses because of unfair competitive methods.

Albert F. Short, district deputy grand master of Masonic District No. 8, made his official visit to Rocky Mountain lodge, Blairmore, on Monday evening.

BADMINTON CLUB NOTES

On Sunday, March 11 seven member of the local Badminton club motored to Fernie to play Fernie city club. Play commenced at 2:30 and continued until 6 p.m. when a delightful lunch was served. After tea both clubs joined forces and played a few more games. A return match with Fernie club will be played here shortly.

The Journal is taken home and read by every member of the family. You do not see copies of the local paper lying around post-office floors or other places such as you notice throw-away-sheets and other forms of advertising which do not make a forceful appeal.

UNITED CHURCH NOTES

Morning, March 18 the minister will continue the series of sermons on the "Crucifixion" and will take as his sermon-subject "The Comradeship of Pain." In the evening Bellevue Caledonian choir will sing several special numbers. Rev. John Wood will preach an appropriate sermon.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

A minimum wage law for men in Manitoba is a possibility this session, according to Premier Bracken.

A further 20 per cent. reduction in automobile insurance rates was announced in Montreal by R. N. Cornish, secretary of the Canadian Automobile Underwriters' association.

Mrs. Saro Jini Naidu presided recently at a meeting of women representing all communities and faith, convened by the Women's Council at Bombay, India.

President Roosevelt, through his secretary of the treasury, asked the United States congress to let him retain a free hand over monetary policies for at least another year.

Renewal of the loan to Manitoba of $1,944,130 which, granted a year ago, will expire on March 14, has been authorized in an order-in-council tabled in the house of commons. The renewal is for six months.

Raising of the educational requirements for nurses taking training courses in Alberta from grade eight to eleven was approved by the Alberta legislature, dealing with an act making this change.

A total of 426,342 pounds of butter was in cold storage March 1 in Winnipeg, as compared with 555,541 at the same time last year, according to a report of the Dominion bureau of statistics.

The government could not state definitely at the moment whether or not a revision of the Dominion Companies act would be made this session, Hon. C. H. Cahan, secretary of state, told the house of commons.

Will Use Hypnotism

College Professor Has Idea It May Aid Education

Knowledge which could not be obtained otherwise without years of study may be acquired in a single semester if education by hypnotism tests to be tried this semester at the College of the City of New York are successful, Dr. Ralph B. Wynn said. Ten students will be used in the tests.

"Small gray balls will be suspended before the students' eyes," he said. "Only a few minutes will be required for their eyes to shut automatically. Yet they will not be asleep. They will be in a state of light hypnosis. When I begin to lecture in a slow, even tone, I shall try to evoke vision after vision in the students' minds."

Students will be selected from volunteers of the psychology class.

Argentina Takes Old Rubber

Have you ever wondered where the old automobile tire casings and inner tubes go? Argentina is seeking rubber scrap from Canada for the manufacture of soles from the rubber for cheap grades of canvas shoes and the remaining portion of the fabric of tires for the manufacture of sleeves for blowout patches, states the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. Japan is also a large importer of old tires.

Noah and the boys were probably the first fly fishermen. With only two worms aboard, they had to be.

China's police force will be reorganized by two Berlin chiefs.

SOURD ON THE WORLD?—THAT'S LIVER

Wake up your liver bile

—No Calomel necessary
Many people who feel sour, sluggish and generally unwell make the mistake of taking calomel, oil, mineral water, laxative candy or shaving cream, or rouge which only make the bowels and liver sicker.

Experiment Was Success

Zoologist Makes Tail of Tadpole Grow On Salamanders

Success in making frog, tadpole tails grow on the bodies of young salamanders (distant zoological cousins of the frog) was recently reported by Eli D. Godsmith, of Harvard University, to the American Society of Zoologists. The tailbuds were cut off the frog embryos while they were very young, he said, and planted all around the salamander larvae. There they grew until the gills of the salamanders began to disappear, a sign of approaching maturity. The tadpole tails then decreased in size and ultimately vanished, just as they do on maturing frogs.

Said To Be Healthy Sign Of Economic Conditions

Immigrants throughout the world are going back to the "Old Country," the International Labor office at Geneva reported, but said this was a healthy sign of economic conditions. Migration figures indicate the return to more normal conditions, the report asserted, while the most recent statistics show signs of improvement in different parts of the world.

Gardening

Starting The Seed Indoors Gives Grower An Early Start

With flowers, variety and continuity of bloom are sought. In making the late care should be taken to secure a preponderance of favorite colors as well as varieties which will assure bloom every month from June until frost. There should be some for scent, some for bouquets, and some to brighten up shady corners, others for window boxes, or tall screens. With a range of colors rivaling the rainbow, with a season of bloom from annuals from May until November and with heights varying from an inch to over six feet, it is not at all difficult to plan a perfect Canadian flower garden.

Too many people are content with one sowing of vegetables. But that custom, fortunately is disappearing. Many vegetables are best planted very early. Spinach, peas, lettuce, and radish, for instance, cannot be put in too early. Just as soon as the soil is fit to work is the time for the first of these. But with the tender stuff like melons, cucumbers, corn, and the started plants there is no rush, as long as there is a possibility of frost. Then, too, it is a big mistake to plant all at one time. Practically everywhere two or three plantings at intervals of ten days of many vegetables can be made and thus the harvest spread over a longer period.

With some things, however, and some places this is not possible but the harvest may be extended by using several varieties. This course is best followed with peas. The early planted peas are the best yielders, but by sowing an early variety, a medium sort and a late crop, though all are planted the same day, there will be a difference of ten days to three weeks in maturity.

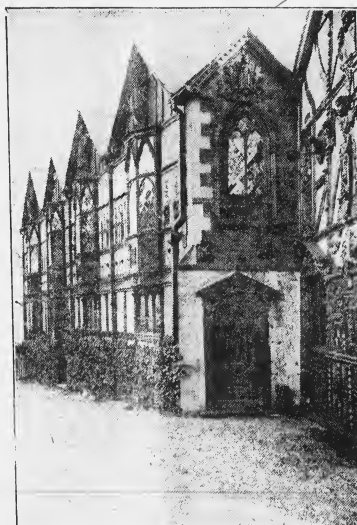

With many flowers and vegetables from two to three weeks can be saved if the seed is started indoors. Indeed, in districts where the growing season is rather short certain things must be grown in this way if bloom or maturity is to be guaranteed.

Among the flowers are pansies, asters, marigolds, zinnias, petunias, cosmos, larkspur, stocks, and snapdragons, though with the possible exception of the petunia and aster in the warmer sections of the Dominion, good results can also be secured from seed sown in the open ground. With vegetables there are peppers, tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower, eggplants, Brussels sprouts, broccolis, celery and head lettuce. Naturally, when sown under glass in March, and set out as well started plants in May, such things are away ahead of seed sown in the open ground after the spring frosts are over.

The Welsh National Theatre has found a new home at the famous mansion of Plas Newydd of Llangollen in North Wales. As the residence of "The Ladies of Llangollen," the two unconventional ladies who were for many years its tenants, Plas Newydd acquired interesting literary associations. ## Little Journeys In Science

ELECTRIC FISH
(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Fish which carry electric charges powerful enough to render their enemies unconscious are found in certain parts of the ocean and in some tropical rivers. These fish are equipped with "electric organs," resembling plates of a battery, which in some cases produce illumination and in others merely give the fish power to give off electric shocks. Luminous fish give off light in various ways. One variety of fish has lights arranged along the sides of its body, giving it the appearance of an ocean liner at night. Another has a lantern suspended before its nose. The light given off is mostly blue and green in color and is said to be very luminous, at times resembling a flame.

The electric eel, one of the most interesting of the electric fish, does not give off light. It has two oppositely charged electric organs running along its back which produce a continuous current from head to tail. The eel is capable of giving off powerful electric shocks. In the tropical rivers of Africa are found catfish about three feet in length, which are capable of giving shocks of 450 volts, sufficient to knock a man senseless.

Scientists have not yet discovered exactly how these electric organs function. It was once thought that the illumination was due to the presence of phosphorus, or to substances given off by decaying matter in the sea, but these theories have been entirely disproven. What scientists do know, is that a process is carried on in these electric fish, which man has not been able to duplicate as yet. That is, energy is changed into electricity without producing heat, a feat which has never been accomplished by man.

Radio Singers Use Cellophane

Coloratura Soprano Voice Muted Inside Hood Of Material

Cellophane has now come to the aid of the radio singer. It has always been difficult to get a really good reproduction of a coloratura soprano voice on the radio. Strange things happen to such voices on the air. Then came the idea of muting the voice. A hood of the transparent material was made, in which a singer can stand and sing her highest notes without fear of microphone vibrations.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MARCH 18
JESUS RESPONDS TO FAITH

Golden Text: "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you." Matthew 7:7.

Lesson: Matthew 13:53-18:12.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 4.

Explanations and Comments

Faith Tested and Triumphant, 15: 21-28. To escape the hostility of the Pharisees and of Herod, and to secure rest for himself and his disciples, Jesus left Galilee and went northward into the neighborhood of Tyre and Sidon on the coast. There a Canaanitish woman came to him and, addressing him as "O Lord, Son of David," besought him to cure her daughter who was tormented with a demon. Mark calls her a Syro-phenician, a Phoenician of Syria. Both terms, Canaan and Phoenicia, were used to designate the coast lands of Palestine.

Though Jesus answered not a word, she continued to cry after him so persistently that the disciples urged him to send her away. They dared not render or not her plea was granted provided they might be left in peace. They were not of her tribe, but of their own discomfort which her persistent entreaties occasioned.

"I was not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel," was Jesus' word. Lost here has the sense of neglected. It was Ezekiel who said of the shepherds of Israel in his day: "The diseased have yet not strengthened, the weak have yet not been strengthened, the which was sick, neither have ye bound up that which was broken, neither have ye brought back that which was driven away, neither have ye sought that which was lost; but with force and rigor have ye ruled them." Jesus concentrated his efforts upon the neglected in his own land, leaving to his disciples the mission among those not of that fold. It was a wise limitation of his ministry.

Smiles At The Border

Canadians Find U.S. Immigration Officials Are More Friendly

Commuters from Canada to the United States will wonder what has come over Uncle Sam's immigration officials at border points. At Detroit they have a cherry "Good morning!" for Windsor folk going over to their work. One official in an excess of cordiality, referred smilingly to "our cousins over the river." All the old gruff manner cultivated by the immigration official has disappeared.

Of equal interest is the news that Uncle Sam has ordered it so. Through the proper channels the instruction has filtered down to the man at the gate "to wear a smile and extend the glad hand to visitors from Canada."

Optimists will see in this cordiality at the border a hint that there may be in the mind of Uncle Sam some thought of freer trade with Canada. —Toronto Globe.

Many Items Of Interest To The Western Farmer

For the whole of Canada, the value of all descriptions of farm poultry is estimated at $33,456,000 in 1933, as compared with $34,138,000 in 1932.

At the University of Toronto it was found that irradiated ergosterol was not as effective as cod liver oil in preventing rickets in chickens.

Root development of the Baldwin apple, McIntosh, and Elberta pears, Bartlett pears and Italian prunes is largely influenced by the character of the soil.

Leaf-wrinkle is a nutritional disorder of the soybean, the injury involving the tips of young leaves which later become much wrinkled on expansion.

According to experiments in Italy, hens fed wholehearted flour laid more fertile eggs than hens fed white flour and the chickens from such eggs were larger and healthier.

Flour which has to be stored for considerable periods in warm, dry rooms, such as are common in steam-heated houses, should be placed in air-tight containers, or practically so.

To prevent young grasshoppers from reaching the surface, farmers in U.S. grasshopper infested areas have been asked to plough grain and straw stubble before May 15.

When fed to young turkeys in various localities of Italy, smaller sized seeds of cereals were better digested than the larger seeds, and resulted in larger gains in weight.

An adequate and well-balanced diet forms an essential part in the treatment of all forms of anemia in human beings, that is, a diet containing fresh red meat, green vegetables, fresh fruit, milk and butter.

Flesh eaters like the coyote, bobcat, and other mammals, and a wide variety of hawks and owls, feed quite regularly on jack rabbit, and under normal conditions help to prevent overpopulation.

In a test covering three summers at Michigan to determine the value of commercial mixtures as compared with farm grains for working horses, it was proved that farm grains were more economical than the commercial mixtures.

The results of six years cross-breeding experiments show that, in the average final weight per lamb, the rankings of lambs out of Rambouillet ewes according to the breed of the sire were Suffolk, Hampshire, Shropshire, Rambouillet, Bouabou, and Romney.

Whereas the killing of roots and crowns of apple trees by low temperatures is deemed the major cause of high mortality in apple orchards, there are several contributory factors, such as inadequate nutrition, poor drainage, foliage injury, the time of freezing, nature of the rootstock, and cultural treatments.

CHAPTER XXXIII

The task of selecting a suitable apartment was not so difficult as Camilla had anticipated. She found vacancies everywhere, and inducements in the way of reduced rates and added accommodations were offered by helpful landlords. She looked at several places, compared prices and possibilities. Rose had insisted that a kitchenette apartment at higher rent would be more economical than taking one room and boarding out. Rose was a marvelous cook and had scoffed at Camilla's objection. "But I know so little about housework, Rose. I'm afraid you would have to do most of it for awhile."

"That's nothing! Housework for two? I wish that was all I ever had to think about. And you'll learn fast. I'll teach you to cook in no time."

Camilla was delighted with her find choice—at a bargain, it seemed to her. She had ventured a little more than they had planned at first for rent, because of her unexpected good fortune in the position with Weeks and Bowman.

The apartment building was a large one, quite new and therefore more attractive, and a number of vacancies permitted the offer of a sub-entrance suite at a sharp reduction.

There were only one large room with an in-door bed, tiny kitchenette and bath. The floor space was quite less than half that of Camilla's own suite in the Hoyt's big house—but that idea of maintaining this home by her own efforts was so exciting that she wanted to move in that very hour and begin her new life at once.

She thought, too, as her eyes took inventory of the neat, snug rooms, the dishes ranged in the cupboard and the tiny porcelain sink in the kitchen, that it would be nice to have Peter over to dinner with them occasionally. And perhaps there would be times when Rose was away that she and Peter could play at keeping house alone.

For a moment, she wished aching—ly that it was Peter who would share the apartment with her instead of Rose, but resolutely dismissed that happy possibility like the good sportsman she had promised herself to be.

In the downstairs hall, she used the public telephone to call Rose and ask her to meet her at the apartment to approve her selection. Rose had not been informed of Camilla's new position, but she immediately insisted, "If it suits you, it's okay with me. Just so you don't forget we're not the Dolly sisters maintaining residences on three continents. Go ahead and take it for a week, and if we have to, we can look for a cheaper place later."

"But I want you to see it, Rose—it's a duck in a place. And I want to see you, because I have some good news for you. Then I'll drive you home. I would have dinner with you somewhere, but I promised to be home tonight."

"To dine in state one last time? Well, you'd better make the most of it just like everything else in life—better to anticipate than to experience. I'll be just as monotonous to pick up your own plate and carry it to the sink to wash it, as it is to watch Bates carry it to the remote regions of the kitchen as if it were a burnt offering for the inner shrine," it may dear, because I'm keeping in Rose's pleasant philosophy to easy chatter rambling on when she inspected the apartment.

"Hot-cha!" was her surprised comment. "Ain't we grand, though? But can we afford it, that's the important question before the hour of representatives. Then you balanced your budget both ways."

Camilla's revelation that she would be able to contribute definitely to the arrangement, called for another "Hot-cha!" from Rose. "You're a whizz, old girl, and no kiddin'! You sure will get wherever you want to go. I wish I were more like you. But her tone held more of admiration than envy."

"You can do anything I can, honey," the elder sister assured her, "and just as soon as I get that rare, you are going to begin that sacrilegious course."

Rose's dark eyes glowed dreamily. "I'd like to take a swell vacation, all right. You know, I used to hate you almost when you came to see us with your swell clothes and your car and your grand manners, and I knew we looked like beggars to you, even when we thought we had things pretty nice ourselves. But even then, I couldn't hate you very much. I know why, now. It's because you really aren't a bit snooty—it was all my imagination and jealousy."

"I'm glad you don't hate me, Rose," Camilla slipped an arm around Rose's shoulders, hungry for the family life that a strange fate had snatched from her. "I've always needed a sister like you, and I want to do something in return for all you are going to teach me."

"About what?"

"Well, you are going to teach me to cook, so I can take care of my Peter some day, for one thing. But more than that, I want to learn your viewpoint about life. You are a younger thing than I, Rose, and you think you have missed a lot of things I've had. But somehow, you are the one who has lived and grown wise while I have skimmed the surface of superficial trifles. I want to learn how to live deeply and wisely. I believe that you can help me."

Rose was silent for a moment. That she had anything to offer this beautiful, talented girl whom fortune had smiled upon, was a surprise to her, but she said presently, with gay insouciance, "Well, if it's how to make three and three add seven, and how to turn the skirt of that season's dress into a blouse for your new suit, you want to learn, I can do all that. And I've seen Ma change a roast into stew, then hash and then tamales so often that I can do the trick like a magician, myself. Those may sound trivial, my dear, but they are really deep mysteries of my life."

"Any accomplishment that requires thought and skill is a mystery until it is done," Camilla agreed. "And those which seem the least important are the ones that make the world go 'round. I've discovered."

Later, when Camilla looked back at the Hoyt table for her last dinner as a member of the household, Mr. Hoyt looked at her keenly and remarked, "So, you're leaving us tomorrow. We're going to miss you greatly, Camilla."

"I shall miss both of you, too," Camilla replied honestly. "But I'll come back to see you sometimes. I'll be pretty busy, of course, and won't have much time for pleasure and friends."

"You're mighty lucky to be getting any kind of a position in such times as these."

"Oh, I don't know. I've heard so many people told that they are lucky to have work, even if it doesn't pay much. I can't see it. That isn't fair. If one has ambition and ability to work, why hasn't he a right to earn a decent living? It is only the misfits who are lucky to have jobs," her tone was a trifle defiant.

"Not turning school, just because you are asked to work, are you?" Alexander agreed with a twinkle.

"Nothing like that. I believe in the individual, not the masses. But even distinguished individuals are feeling this upheaval."

"They certainly are," Mr. Hoyt agreed, tiredly. He had given no hint to his wife of the condition of his affairs, but it was no betrayal to admit that he was involved in the general depression. Neither did he distinguish individuals as feeling this upheaval.

CHAPTER XXXIV

Peter was taking the stairs two at a time, intent upon returning to his work for the afternoon when he looked up to see a girl unlocking the door across the hall from his own.

So, his new neighbor was a girl. His first intention was to ignore her, but curiosity prompted a second glance, and he found himself face to face with Avis Werth. He had not seen her since the Hoyt party at the club.

"Hello, Peter," she greeted him so easily, as if she had been a tenant in Annex Hall for a long time.

"Why—how do you do, Miss Werth?" he could not conceal his surprise. "So you are the new neighbor."

"Are you sorry?" she laughed at his consternation.

"Of course, not," he hastened to assure her. "What could be more pleasant than a friend for a neighbor? But I'm afraid you won't find me very sociable. I'm so busy these days I can't find time to eat."

"Working on your piece for the exhibit," Avis observed with an eager concern. "How does it go? I'm dying to see it, Peter."

He ignored that. "But why the outburst?" he indicated her spacious apartment.

She affected a pouting expression. "Is that nice of you? Can't I take art seriously as well as anyone? I took this place because I never can accomplish anything at home. Oceans of room, but no one will take me seriously or respect my privacy, so I came here to work. As for being sociable, I shan't trouble you because I'll be just as busy as you are. So there! Only," her eyes were lowered for a moment and then met his wistfully, "there's an idea—there is one way we both might save some time. I am going to have a salad for mornings and you can run in here for a bite of breakfast or lunch, often. That will save some of your precious time that you can't spare to look up a restaurant. It's not very practical and casual, as if she were adjusting the computation of time by the calendar and clock, to accommodate him, and yet doing nothing unusual.

He laughed tolerantly. "I'm afraid it wouldn't work out that way. We'd get to talking and take two hours out instead of a few minutes. Thanks, though, for your neighborly thoughtfulness." He was unlocking his door, but Avis made no movement to enter her own room. He pushed his door open and she sauntered across the hall.

"Just let me have one peek, Peter," her voice coaxed. "I'll not say a word to anyone about your work. Besides, I want to see your room. I only had a glimpse of them once before."

"There's only one," he replied shortly. "Nothing to see, but come in if you wish. You know, art is more than an effect with me—it's my work."

They were in the room now. He left the door standing open. "Oh, it's beautiful!" Avis exclaimed. She moved over to the clay figure on the turnstand and stood gazing at it with genuine admiration. Finally, she said softly, "It's marvelous. The clay is already yours."

He laughed a confused denial of her praise, please! nevertheless.

"It's rather good, I guess, but I'm not thinking of the prize. Now that it is almost finished, I am much more interested in the work itself. I think I might be able to sell it for a pretty good price. If I do it in marble, in flesh tones, perhaps."

He was gazing at the figure with a fond and critical eye, as a parent regards his flesh and blood child. Avis might not have been present, for all he was noticing her or thinking about her.

She glanced around the room for something to detract his attention from the clay figure on the stand. Her eye glimpsed a group of framed etchings on the wall. "What beautiful etchings! You did those, too, Peter? You're a genius!"

"No, Camilla did those. They are mine, but I wish she would, so she gave them to me." Rage seized Avis for a moment. She had drawn his attention from a clay figure, only to concentrate it upon Camilla. She managed to ask calmly, "Does she come here to see you often?"

He was often at it with she would, but Camilla would interfere with my work, she declares. So I have to be grateful for that. She's a good little sport. When a thing has to be done, she believes in doing it right. It has first place until it is finished."

But Camilla, he thought, does he never talk nor think of anything except Camilla and work? She feigned an incredulous surprise at his remark. "I should think nothing would take the first place from a husband." She shrugged. "But, then, I suppose not. Love and marriage mean so little to some girls. No wonder men can't understand them. They don't all know that a man needs lots of love and sympathy and comforting to make him happy and keep him so," she observed wisely and with a tone of regret for all the wrecked marriages of such negligent wives.

"What do you know about it?" Peter only seemed to be amused. He did not attempt to defend Camilla.

"Some women are wives by instinct. They don't have to be married to understand men," she still maintained that sober, impersonal air of rare wisdom. Then she paused suddenly and said brightly, "But you haven't seen my place. It is just finished and I'm rather proud of it," modestly. "Please tell me if it looks right." She had caught his hand as if to lead him across the hall.

Peter drew away. "I'm sorry. I'll have to endure the suspense of waiting until later to see your place. My model will be here any minute and I've got to get to work. I told you I can't be a good neighbor, even."

"Then do come over this evening," she urged hospitably. "Any time you have a minute to relax, drop in. You can't work every minute."

"But I might interrupt your work. I thought you came here for seclusion," he reminded her.

Avis lifted her hands eloquently. "One hour every day without an interruption would seem like a century to me. I can't go into seclusion all of a sudden. Besides, even if I do want to work I can't take it that seriously. I expect to throw a lot of parties—studio stuff, you know. I'm giving a housewarming soon and you will have to take time out to be there, don't you forget. You and Camilla," she added as an afterthought.

There were footsteps outside, tapping on the stairs and along the hall, and presently Sylvia stood in the doorway. "Hello," she said briefly, after a glance at Avis without recognition.

"Here she is!" Peter exclaimed with obvious relief. "My model, Miss Todd, Miss Werth. You may be needing a good model yourself. Now prospect," he advised Sylvia, already busy with arranging his materials.

"Perhaps I can use you sometime," Avis told Sylvia with a patronizing air. "Well, then, I'll run along and let you two get to work. Bye, Peter," she smiled friendly, and sauntered out.

"The new neighbor turned out to be an old friend," Peter explained casually.

"That's nice," observed Sylvia.

"I don't know that it is as nice," he contradicted. "There is no worse nuisance in the world for a serious artist than a make-believe one who doesn't have to work, but maintains a studio just for effect and a place to entertain. It would be just my luck to get such a neighbor when I am the busiest. I'm afraid she's going to be a pest."

"You don't sound very crazy about her," Sylvia ventured caressingly.

"She's nothing to me," Peter shrugged. "I said she was a friend. She isn't even that—merely a acquaintance. One of the class at National. It's all the same to me if I never see her again. Fact is, I always made it a point to steer clear of her when I could. Now she lives across the hall and suggests that I run in to have tea with her," he grimaced.

Sylvia laughed with genuine amusement, knowing more about the situation than he was aware. Almost, she was tempted to warn him of Avis' intentions, for her sympathies really were with Peter. But her youthfully acquired sophistication maintained that any man could take care of himself. The chances were ninety-nine to one that any woman got the worst of an affair with any man. This happened to be a rare case in which she wished the man luck, chiefly because he was not the aggressor.

Peter's prognostications proved correct about Avis becoming a nuisance. It was only the second day after their first meeting in the hall, when he had made no attempt to respond to her hospitable suggestion to drop in any minute, that she knocked on his door about noon, and to his curt "Come in," opened it with a cherry. "Good morning, neighbor. What! at work so early in the morning. Then I guessed it right—you are hungry. I just ran across to invite you over to lunch-breakfast. Tilly has made hot biscuits that will melt in your mouth. Not a raz living could resist that!"

She was gayly provocative and informal in scarlet satin pajamas embroidered with gold draw and Oriental characters that on Oriental over would have recognized or deciphered. But they added their touch of subtle charm and mystery. Her long, narrowly plucked eyebrows that slanted downward at her temples contributed to that effect.

If one analyzed her features according to relation and measurement, Avis was not beautiful, but there was a striking sophistication and allure about her that were a combination of beauty culture, the confidence of wealth and a selfish assumption that whatever she desired was hers.

Peter rubbed the clay from his fingers, irresolutely.

Little Helps For This Week

"Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you, but rejoice, inasmuch as you are partakers of Christ's sufferings." 1 Peter 4:12-13.

We take with solemn thankfulness Our burden up, nor ask it less. And count it joy that even we May suffer, serve, or wait for Thee, Whom will be done.

—J. G. Whittier.

Receive every inward and outward trouble, every disappointment, temptation, darkness and desolation with both hands as a true opportunity and blessed occasion of dying to self, and entering into a fuller fellowship with thy self-denying, suffering Saviour. Look at no inward or outward trouble with any other thought, and then every kind of trial and distress will become the blessed day of thy prosperity. That state is best which exercises the highest faith, and fullest resignation to God.—Wm. Law.

New Bird Discovered

Pugnacious Midget Is No Bigger Than Good-Sized Bee

A bird no bigger than a good-sized bee, found in the Haitian highlands, is described in a new publication just issued by Dr. Alexander Wetmore, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian Institution. It is known as the Hispaniolan verian humming bird. In spite of its tininess it is quite pugnacious as indeed most humming birds are, and does not hesitate to dart to the attack of birds as big as a mocking bird if it objects to their presence.—Science.

Passengers of a cruising liner which recently visited Juan Fernandez, "Robinson Crusoe Island," spent enough while there to help the islanders through the winter.
